REDS NEAR OREL

Nazis Desperately Try To Stem Russian Tide

By WILLIAM MCGAFFIN.

MOSCOW, July 17—(AP)—The German high command has thrown two new divisions, one armored and one infantry, against the Russian spearhead now threatening Orel, front dispatches said today, but the red army was reported repulsing all nazi thrusts and continuing to advance.

One wing of the red army's smashing counter attack was reported to have rolled to within 25 miles of the heavily fortified nazi base as the Germans frantically rallied all available manpower and equipment in a desperate effort to stave off a major break-through.

Soviet columns stabbing in from the north and east are within heavy artillery range of Orel, dispatches said, but it was not disclosed whether barrages had actually begun yet. They also could pound the Orel-Bryansk railroad.

(The German communique reported that "fierce fighting of defense continued in the Orel area" yesterday, and that soviet attacks were repulsed in the "hard, fluctuating struggle" with 251 Russian tanks destroyed.)

Advance 6-10 Miles.

Dispatches reported that the northern column of the Russian counter-offensive against Orel was advancing southward and had progressed another six to 10 miles after overcoming 11 heavy German counter-attacks.

There is no indication of the present location of the other Russian column advancing on Orel from the east. Its original advance put it to within about 25 miles of Orel, dispatches indicated.

The war bulletin gave the day's bag as 129 German tanks and 76 planes, raising the 12-day total to 3,181 tanks and 1,762 planes. German losses in personnel also continued to mount, the communique said, listing the total at 62,000.

(A broadcast by the Oslo radio recorded by the Associated Press said the Russians after a long lull had begun attacking south of Schlusselburg on the Leningrad front. The broadcast said the soviets had thrown three battalions into tthe attack there.)

Woman Injured In Accident At Havelock Shops

Mrs. Nellie Wilburger, an employe at the Havelock shops, was injured in an accident Saturday afternoon, and taken to Lincoln General hospital for emergency treatment. A report from the office of Dr. H. Winnett Orr, her attending physician, stated that both her ankles were fractured.

The accident occurred on the repair tracks.

Broken Aqueduct Cuts Washington Supply Of Water

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—Washington's water supply was cut by about one-third today when an earth movement caused a break in the capital's aqueduct system, and emergency orders were issued for a halt in nonessential use.

It was estimated full service could be restored in about six days.

Police were ordered to enforce the ban against watering of lawns and victory gardens, car washing, sidewalk and street flushing and other nonessentials.

The United States engineer office reported enough water available for all essential and emergency use.

No Successful Sabotage Yet

. . . Hoover Tells FBI Graduating Class

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—J. Edgar Hoover, head of the federal bureau of investigation, declared today that "not a single successful act of foreign-directed sabotage has occurred to hinder our war efforts."

Addressing the graduating class of the FBI national police academy, Hoover said the co-ordinated efforts of federal, state and local law enforcement agencies have curbed activities of foreign espionage agents "before they could accomplish their fiendish aims."

"We have, by planning and co-ordination, avoided the hysteria which prevailed in World war I, when innocent persons were persecuted and harmed as the result of ill-advised vigilante activities," he said. "We have kept the home front secure."

William M. Jeffers, rubber administrator, told the graduates "there is unusual room for improvement" in law enforcement, particularly in communities where politics still play a major part in the selection of police officials.

"Even today, there are many communities wherein sheriffs and police officers must spend a great portion of their time campaigning if they are to hold their jobs," he said, and often law enforcement posts go to "popular" men who possess "no fundamental equipment for their jobs."

Sicily Air Control Complete

...Gained In 7 Epic Days

BY JOSEPH MORTON.

AN ALLIED FORCE COMMAND POST IN NORTH AFRICA, July 17 — (AP) — In the week since the invasion of Sicily began allied fliers have won one of the most decisive aerial victories of the war.

An important general officer made this point clear today, declaring that the German and Italian air forces operating in the Mediterranean theater now are "hopelessly outnumbered."

In seven epic days the allies have gained the same control in Sicily they had in Tunisia—air supremacy as great or greater than that held by Germany when operating over Greece and Crete.

The fliers also made a vital contribution to the success of the invasion by ferrying parachutists and glider-borne troops to Sicily for the initial surprise assault.

Striking from north Africa, Malta and recently-captured Pantelleria, the allied airmen moved up to Sicilan bases after the first two days and at the week's end were operating from at least half a dozen of them.

Talmage Official Dies At Work On Power Wire Pole

TALMAGE, Neb., July 17—(AP)—Otoe county authorities today were investigating the cause of the death of James Edwin Porter, 51, Talmage village clerk and water and light commissioner. Porter was working on a light pole in the village yesterday when he fell to the ground. Because he had suffered a heat stroke while working on the same pole the day before, it was believed he had been overcome by the heat again. When he suffered the heat stroke, he was unconscious for a short time but was held to the pole by his safety belt.

After the fall burns were discovered on Porter's hands and chest and a rescue squad from the Consumers Public Power district at Nebraska City was called. The squad worked four hours but failed to revive Porter. Surviving are his widow and four children.

Enemy Ship Sunk

LONDON, July 17—(AP)—An enemy ship probably was sunk and two others were damaged when light coastal forces of the royal navy attacked a convoy off the Dutch coast early today, the admiralty announced.

Divorcee, 20, Admits She Kidnaped Boy

NEW YORK, July 17—(AP)—The arrest of a 20-year-old woman on a charge of kidnaping a 3-year-old boy was announced today by FBI agent E. E. Conroy, who said she related that her purpose was to try to convince her divorced husband she had a son.

Conroy, special agent in charge of the New York office of the federal bureau of investigation, identified the woman as Mary Penore of a lower east side neighborhood, and said her arrest unfolded a story as bizarre as any in police records.

Conroy said the woman had signed a statement that she had kidnaped Jimmy Di Maggio on July 3, had taken him to Nashville to live in a Y. W. C. A. room, and had returned with him to New York on July 11, abandoning the boy in a 34th street restaurant.

Coast Guard Seeks Bodies Of 7 Drowned

EAST TAWAS, Mich., July 17—(AP)—Search was resumed today for the bodies of seven of nine youths believed to have drowned when more than a score of panic-stricken excursionists on a church group outing leaped into Tawas bay last night from a water-shipping scow.

Coast guardsmen had recovered the bodies of Ruth Smith, 16, Bay City, and Henry Bascone, 16, Caro. Three boys and four girls still were missing after a check of East Tawas homes which had been opened to care for the survivors.

About 50 delegates to the Saginaw district Methodist Young People's institute here went on an excursion into Lake Huron, half of them aboard a 30-foot gasoline launch hired from a livery and the others in a 20-foot scow towed by the launch.

About 1,500 feet off shore, the scow began filling with water and those aboard became frightened and leaped into the bay, coast guards said.

Gordon MacAndrews, boat livery proprietor and operator of the launch, said about 30 life preservers were thrown to those struggling in the 12-foot deep water, but that in their panic some seized two while others got none.

Dairy Production Declines, Shortage Of Milk Impending

CHICAGO, July 17—(AP)—The nation's dairy production is declining and a shortage of milk supplies impends, the National Co-operative Milk Producers' federation said today, declaring that the administration's wartime program "has been creating scarcity rather than abundance of dairy products."

The federation's board of directors at the close of a two-day special meeting yesterday in a resolution declared that centralized government price control and subsidy policies "are destroying the national balance and normal function of economic forces."

"The administration has allowed prices of dairy products to lag behind the prices of such alternative products as hog and beef cattle," the resolution said. "As a result, the income of dairy people is much lower than the income of those other groups."

Moore Learned Many Lessons In Tunisia

. . . Villisca's Hero Will Teach Tactics at Ft. Benning

VILLISCA, Ia., July 17—(AP)—He has seen his men, some from his home community, fall under fire.

He has seen green troops suffer because they have been directed by green commanders.

He knows that war is a tough, brutal business—and that the man with the bayonet and rifle must become an efficient, ruthless killer to the enemy.

He has had close calls with death—one that put him in the hospital and deprived him of his eyesight for two days.

From his experiences in the north African campaign he has learned much—and now he's going to impart that knowledge to the troops in training in this this country.

Knows About Tactics.

He will leave at the end of his 20-day furlough here for Fort Benning, Ga., to become an instructor in tactics at Uncle Sam's infantry school.

That is what the immediate future has in store for Lt. Col. Robert R. Moore, who before the Iowa national guard was mobilized in 1940 was concerned not with the trade of killing, but with mixing prescriptions and taking care of the trade at his drug store in this peaceful Iowa town of 2,600.

And Col. Moore knows something about tactics.

That knowledge enabled him to lead his company from behind German lines to safety in the battle of Faid pass last February. For that he won the silver star and was promoter from major to Lieutenant colonel.

Col. Moore told how early in the Tunisian campaign the American forces were dispersed, how some times they would be sent up against German positions so heavily protected and fortified the enemy couldn't even be seen.

His Proudest Moment.

But then they learned that the wisest tactics were to fall back and hit in a co-ordinated attack. In some instance it was better to by-pass a securely-held enemy position, and then squeeze it off from the rear.

Perhaps the proudest moment, Col. Moore had in Africa was after the action of the First and Third battalions of the 168th regiment in taking a hill that enaabled them to hold Chouf Gue pass, permitting American units to join with the First British army.

The Germans, Col. Moore said, didn't like the night bayonet attacks of the Yanks and the terrific artillery support.

"We never fired at night, though," Col. Moore added. "We'd let Jerry fire and show his position. Then we'd go in with cold steel and get him."

The colonel doesn't know whether his wife and daughter, Nancy, will join him at Ft. Benning.

There's the problem of what to do about the drug store that his wife and mother have been running in his absence.

ITALIANS WAITED THREE WEEKS TO SURRENDER

AN ALLIED FORCE COMMAND POST IN NORTH AFRICA, July 15—(AP)—A train loaded with Italian soldiers captured in Sicily rolled slowly through the African tableland and a Yank riding along an adjacent highway in a jeep couldn't restrain himself.

"Hey, where you fellows been?" he called.

Back came the reply in perfect English:

"We've been packed and waiting three weeks ago. Where have you been?"

Warning Issued To Egg Buyers By State Head

. . . Law To Be Enforced

The Nebraska egg law will be strictly enforced during the summer months when egg spoilage is prevalent, Henry Obbink, state department of agriculture, warned egg purchasing agents Saturday.

Four offenders picked up by state inspectors and fined Saturday included George Leahy, Johnson county, $11.80; Walter Hahn, Johnson county, $6.80; Elvo Pratt, Johnson county, $6.80, and R. L. Folda, Ogallala, $6.80.

"The inspectors are going to be on their guard against the careless and willful violation of the state law preventing eggs from going on the open market unless they have been 'candled,'" Obbink asserted.

Each merchant purchasing eggs from a dealer must first "candle" the egg before using it or attempting to sell it, Obbink explained.

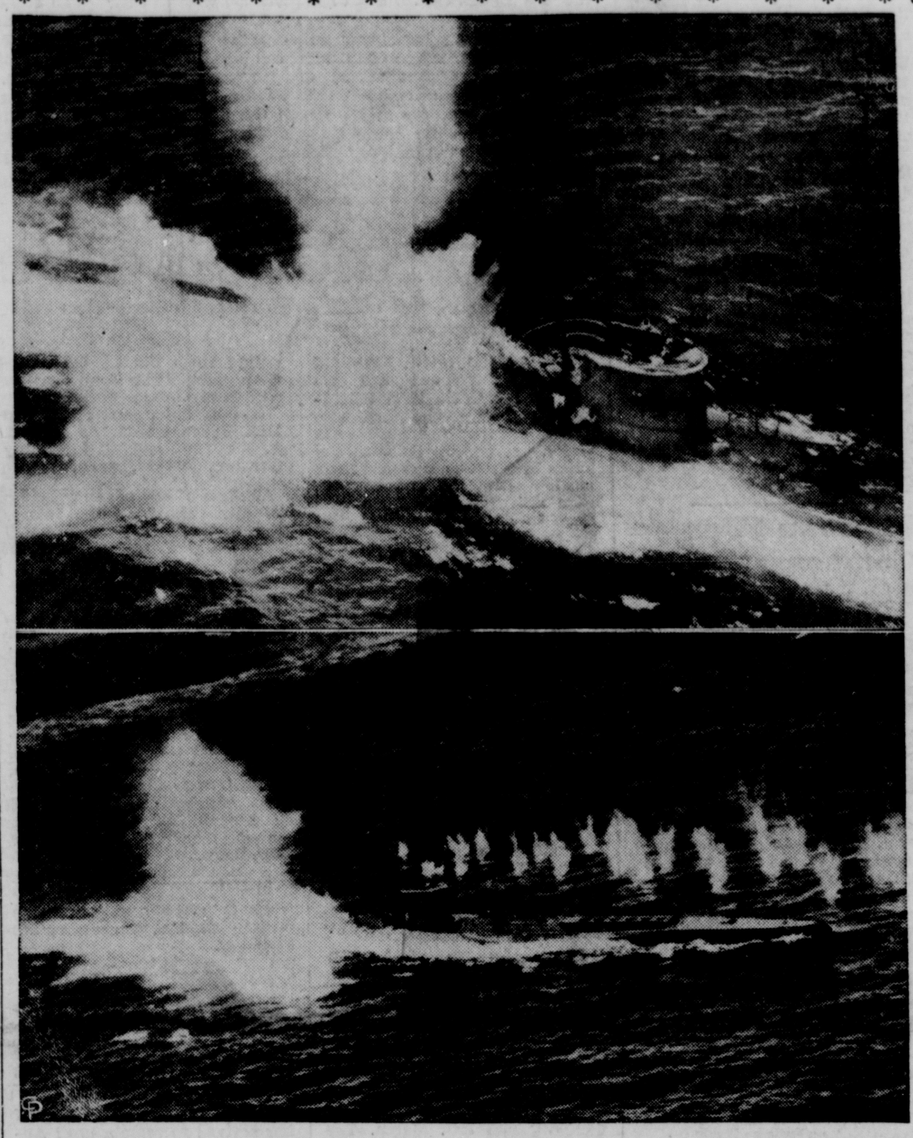
Axis Position Around Catania Grows Critical



SINKING OF 10 OUT OF 11 NAZI SUBS is credited to one of the U. S. navy's new "baby flat-tops" identified only as "Carrier B." The record bag of U-boats was scored in action over a few days while the carrier was escorting a convoy in the Atlantic. These spectacular pictures were taken during the attacks on the subs by the carriers' Grumman Avenger torpedo-bombers. Nazi sailors on the deck and conning tower of one of the U-boats duck, top, as a huge geyser of water shoots up alongside the craft and a second charge is about to hit the water. Strafing and depth bombing are combined in the attack on the sub shown in lower photo. Shells explode on one side of the sub while a depth charge explodes on the other. U. S. navy photos.

Theo Berg Added To Wilkinson's Roster of 'Boys'

Councilman Rees Wilkinson called Director Theo Berg for some information Saturday by telephone.

Mr. Berg supplied the facts and got the response, "Thanks a lot, boy."

Councilman Kitrell got in the limelight when Mr. Wilkinson called him "My dear boy" in a council meeting. Councilman Maly was next when Wilkinson called him "My boy." Now Director Berg is just "boy."

Jerner to Take Over Postmaster Duties In August

O. E. Jerner received formal notification from Washington of his appointment as Lincoln postmaster, and Saturday morning executed bond for the office.

Before taking over duties in the postoffice, he is awaiting the arrival of his commission from the postmaster general. Jerner said Saturday that he will probably not go into office until late in August.

At present circulation manager of The Star, he will succeed R. E. Fenton, who has reached retirement age.

County Buys New Armchairs For Men Jurors

. . . Women Still Waiting

While several groups of Lincoln women have been pressing their demands for a chance at jury service the county commissioners have been going ahead with their promise to fix up the jury quarters to the extent that the rooms will be more comfortable for men jurors when the fall jury term opens in September.

The commissioners indicated Saturday they had purchased a dozen new arm chairs which were now in storage and ready for the fall term. Talk of painting the rooms is still in vague generalities.

Women will be unable to serve on juries in the county because the commissioners refuse at this time to spend an estimated $20,000 to make the jury quarters presentable and fit for women. Such necessities as separate lavatories and lounging rooms were included in the plans.

Ask Only Neatness.

Now the ladies are claiming they would be satisfied with merely clean quarters and ask no more consideration than is given men jurors.

A spokesman for the Nebraska federation of business and professional women's clubs said: "We heartily commend the action of the Nebraska legislature in passing the women's jury bill. It makes available for jury service many well equipped and informed citizens who have to date been barred from service because of their sex."

Said a member of the women's division, chamber of commerce: "Women jury service is especially important now because of the increasing demand for men in military service. I am sure the women would expect no more than men as long as clean facilities were provided.

The decision as to whether the jury quarters are adequate is up to the presiding judge of each district. Judge J. H. Broady of Lancaster county district court has said he does not sanction a halfway job of providing for women jurors.

Yanks On West Stab 30 Miles

. . . United Nations Fliers Drop Leaflets On Rome

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 17—(AP)—The axis' situation around Catania in eastern Sicily was reported in front line dispatches tonight to be growing more critical by the hour.

The allied announcement that a joint American-British military government had been established ashore and was beginning to take control was interpreted as meaning that complete occupation of Sicily was considered to be only a matter of time.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's great desert army was believed to be approaching the outskirts of Catania today after smashing back the Hermann Goering and elements of the 15th armored divisions in the biggest battle yet fought for Sicily.

Going forward with a powerful allied war fleet on his seaward flank gunning the enemy's positions, Montgomery has captured both Lentini and Scordia, at the entrance to the Catania plain, allied headquarters announced, while on all other parts of the allied front the advance continued.

The Italian navy still has not dared to interfere.

Lentini Captured

(By the Associated Press.)

British troops in eastern Sicily have stormed into Lentini and Scordia at the gateway to the strategic Catania plain, and other allied troops striking inland from the southern coast have captured Caltagirone to threaten the right flank of Germans defending the seaport of Catania, allied headquarters announced today.

Unconfirmed reports said the British forces of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery were approaching the outskirts of Catania itself.

American troops on the southern front, meanwhile, were believed to have pushed deeper inland after working through hill country.

Canadian troops captured Caltagirone, 20 miles northeast of Gela, and Grammichele, a few miles to the southeast. Caltagirone is the western terminus of a railroad to Catania.

The advance poised an allied spearhead into the right flank of German armored forces guarding the Catania plain and perhaps already locked in a great battle with the British Eighth army advancing up the east coast toward Catania.

Scordia lies nine miles west of Lentini, and is only about a dozen

City, State May Link Inspection Rooming Houses

Inspection of rooming, lodging houses, apartment houses and hotels will be under the joint supervision of the city and state after Monday if the city council passes on third reading the ordinance introduced last Monday by Councilman Kitrell and read twice under suspension of the rules.

The state department of agriculture's food and dairy department under direction of Henry O' bink has one inspector, C. C. Bingaman, assigned to Lincoln. When the ordinance was drawn hurriedly and rushed through two readings a week ago, it was without consultation with the state inspection head. While no conflict is anticipated, Director Venner desires a close supervision of persons who patronize all such places with especial reference to making the places fit for use by service men. Director Venner told the council last Monday 10 rooming houses were then "off limits" by air base order.

The state department inspection looks more particularly to see that state laws as to bedding and cleanliness are observed.

Four Nebraskans German Prisoners

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—The war department made public today the names of 435 United States soldiers, including four Nebraskans, who are held as prisoners of war by Germany. The Nebraskans are:

Staff Sgt. George H. Hargadon, husband of Mrs. Charlotte R. Hargadon, Omaha.

Sgt. Johnny D. Imboden, son of Mrs. John Imboden, Broken Bow.

Staff Sgt. Raymond C. Oltman, son of Anton Oltman, Princeton.

Pvt. Benjamin L. Smith, son of Andrew J. Smith, Seward.

Nips Hit 4 Times

. . . Fires Started Among Anti-Aircraft Guns

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—The navy announced today that army bombers raided Japanese positions on Kiska island four times Thursday, starting several fires among the enemy's anti-aircraft batteries.

The air attack fell the same day as the latest shelling of the enemy-held island, which had been reported by the navy yesterday. A small American warship bombarded Japanese defenses at Gertrude cove, southwest of Kiska harbor in the early morning.

Apparently a break in the weather, which has held bombing operations to a minimum in the western Aleutians since April, made it possible for the Aleutians command to co-ordinate the aerial assault with the surface attack.

—ALLIED AIR ATTACK—

BATTER EUROPE TARGETS

. . . Forts Hit Foe Hard

LONDON, July 17—(AP)—American heavy bombers raided industrial targets at Amsterdam in the occupied Netherlands and in northwest Germany today, it was officially announced.

Bombs were seen to burst in the target areas.

The unescorted Flying Fortresses encountered clouds of enemy fighters on their way home and early claims indicated that upwards of 50 were destroyed by Fortress gunners.

Two bombers were missing.

LONDON, July 17—(AP)—Britain-based RAF bombers smashed at Italy's transportation system with a second straight night assault across the Alps last night by blasting the power facilities which feed Mussolini's electrified railways while Mosquito bombers battered Munich on the German-Italian Brenner line.

With the rising sun today the precision daylight assault on continental targets was resumed in great strength, with hundreds of two-engined and four-engined bombers and fighter-intruders shuttling across the channel.

Last night's targets in Italy, as was the case the night before, were transformer and switching stations through which flow the current generated in the Alps to keep Italian rail supplies moving.

The first Lincoln woman to be sworn into the WAACs in Lincoln took the oath of allegiance to the corps Friday at the recruiting office at 116 North Thirteenth street.

Volunteer Nurse And Baby Disappear

LOS ANGELES, July 17—(AP)—Police are searching for a well-dressed girl, about 16, and the missing baby of 19-year-old Mrs. Stella Tucker.

Mrs. Tucker told officers she arrived from Chattanooga, Tenn., yesterday and that her 15-month-old daughter, Joan, and the young girl disappeared while she was sleeping on a bus station bench. She was waiting for a bus to take her to her husband, an army sergeant at Camp Roberts, Cal.

The distraught mother told police was tired from traveling. She said the unknown girl, an attractive and pleasant brunette, offered to take the baby, saying: "Oh, I'll hold her for you. You get a little sleep."

When she awakened, the girl and the baby were gone.

Guadalcanal Was A Lulu, Beatrice Soldier Declares

"Guadalcanal was a lulu. It was more fun, with a bombing raid every now and then to entertain us," writes Clarence Salts, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Salts of Beatrice.

There has been plenty of action for Salts since he entered army service and was sent to the South Pacific battle area.

"I'll never forget the first bombing raid," he said in a recent letter. "I was a big brave boy and never dug a fox hole. Well, a daisy cutter fell pretty close to where I was standing that night. The next night I think I had the deepest hole on the island."

FDR May Not Seek 4th Term

. . . Nye and Smith Aver

(By the Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—Two outspoken U. S. senators—a republican and a democrat—voiced belief today President Roosevelt might not seek or accept nomination for a fourth term.

Senator Nye (R-ND) asserted that if the president "finds there's a large chance of his being whipped," he will step aside.

"And," Nye told a reporter, "if he looks around enough, he'll find just that."

Senator Smith (D-SC) declared in another interview that "Roosevelt won't win the nomination even if he should seek it, and by convention time, I think he'll be convinced of that."

"If he should be able to swing the nomination," Smith declared, "he'd be beaten for re-election, regardless of whether the war is in progress."

Republicans to Meet.

Nye said the principal job of his own party was to find a man behind whom "the party and the American people can unite."

Meanwhile it developed that the republican party's post-war advisory council has fixed on Sept. 6 and 7, or thereabouts, for its first full meeting to consider suggestions for a peace preservation plank in the 1944 platform.

The council will convene in the midwest at a place still to be selected. Mackinac Island, Mich., and Lake Geneva, Wis., had been considered but rejected.

A national committee spokesman said today that the council, organized by Chairman Harrison E. Spangler and composed of GOP governors, senators, representatives and committee members, would put in "two days of hard work and hard thinking" in an effort to agree on basic principles of a post-war policy to be recommended to the national convention.

Harmony May Be Jarred.

The harmony which republican governors attending the recent annual governors' conference at Columbus, O., predicted would prevail in the coming council sessions may be jarred slightly if two recently-formed organizations try to impress the members with their respective views.

These are the republican nationalist revival committee organized in Chicago with the announced aim of making the GOP the "nationalist party" in American politics, and the republican post-war policy association, also formed in Chicago, with the opposite goal of keeping America a full-fledged collaborationist with other nations after the war.

The "revival" group wants Col. Robert R. McCormick, Chicago Tribune publisher, to seek for the presidential nomination. The other organization adheres rather generally to the views on international co-operation held by Wendell Willkie, but claims it is behind no individual for the nomination.

Willkie, who has indicated he might run again next year, declared in an interview in New York Thursday night that he hoped Col. McCormick would become an avowed candidate by entering the Illinois preference primary.

This, Willkie said, would give him an opportunity to oppose the publisher on the stump in Illinois and thereby develop what he called a clear-cut issue on post-war foreign policy.

Col. McCormick commented that "anybody can beat Willkie in Illinois. He's a joke out there."

He gave no indication whether he would enter the race in Illinois.

Lamb Feeders Back Lower Freight Move

The Nebraska Lamb Feeders association and the Colorado-Nebraska Lamb Feeders association Saturday wired the state railway commission assuring support of the commission's fight to equalize freight rates on fresh meat and packing house products from Nebraska to the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

D. C. Broderick, secretary of the Nebraska association, said his association is "ehartily in favor of lower rates to California," and he urged that it is "essential that the railway commission press its fight."

John R. Jordan, secretary of the Colorado-Nebraska group, said, "Any reduction of west coast rates would be of benefit to producers" and he said he believed such reductions would bring new industry to Nebraska.

An Interstate commerce commission hearing on Iowa packers similar request in which Nebraska is intervening is scheduled for Denver, October 12.

Fireman Files Compensation Plea With City

Fireman Herman Schmidt, 2834 Starr street, has filed application with the city for workmen's compensation of $15 a week for injuries sustained on two occasions which, he says, have caused him permanent disability. He tells the council he hurt his back and head February 19, 1941, at Twenty-seventh and B streets when he slipped on ice and fell while on duty. On January 20, 1943, while engaged in rescue work at Twelfth and Oak on an auto in the creek he sustained further injuries, he says, which aggravated the first ones until they have become permanent.

Further than free medical treatment, he has received nothing. He cites as his physicians Dr. H. Winnett Orr, Dr. W. W. Carveth, Dr. J. E. M. Thompson, Dr. Clayton Andrews and Dr. Harold R. Shickley.

Seven New Navy Recruits Listed

The Lincoln navy recruiting office Saturday announced the enlistment of seven more men. Norman Edwin Klein, Adams, has enlisted in the SeaBees as a machinist's mate second class. The others, 17-year-olds, are enlisted as apprentice seamen. They are: Robert Dale Robinette, 642 North Thirty-fourth; Clarence Marvin Fenstemaker, Bellwood; Ralph Stanley Reger, 1151 Saratoga; Max Elvin Perkins, 918 North Twenty-second; Francis Marion Hughes, 1203 Saratoga; Everett Fae Thompson, 1203 Saratoga.

Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo

BASED ON THE FORTHCOMING Book-of-the-Month

By Capt. Ted W. Lawson
EDITED BY BOB CONSIDINE

I came in toward the beach. We caught the top of a wave . . . There was no power in my arms or legs, only an instinctive want to live.

I REMEMBER THINKING momentarily, as we swung down toward the beach, that if this was Japanese occupied land we could make a pretty good fight for it while we lasted. Our front machine guns were detachable and, in a pinch, could be set up on the beach. I told the boys to put their automatics on and I had time to see that my .45 and the .25 Ellen had given me were in their holsters.

I came in to the beach now, watching the water underneath us and listening to Davenport call off the airspeeds. He had just said "One hundred and ten" when for some reason I'll never understand, both engines coughed and lost their power. My hands jerked out and with one motion I primed the engines, trying to force life back into them, adjusted the prop pitch and tried to pull back the stick to keep the nose up—so we could squash in. The two bigger landing wheels caught the top of a wave as the plane sagged and the curse of desperation and disappointment that I cried was drowned by the most God-awful noise I ever heard. It was as if some great hand had reached down through the storm, seized the plane and crunched it in a closing fist.

Then nothing. Nothing but peace.

Finally I began to realize vaguely that I was sitting in my pilot's seat, under water. I remember thinking: I'm dead. Then: No, I'm just hurt. Hurt bad. I couldn't move but there was no feeling of being trapped or of fighting for air.

I thought of Ellen . . . I thought of our baby and wondered if it would be a boy or girl. A growing uneasiness came through my numb body: I wished I had left Ellen some money. I thought of money for my mother, too, in those disembodied seconds.

I could not feel my arms, yet I know I reached down and unbuckled the seat strap that was holding me to the chair. I drifted up off the seat and started floating to the surface.

It was like a dream of trying to escape from something that moves very swiftly, while you move slowly. There was no power in my arms or legs, only an instinctive want to live—a want that I couldn't understand. I began to fight now to hold my breath. It didn't seem possible to hold the water out of my bursting lungs even one more second . . .

Operators of Curb Services Say Some Equipment Is Taken

Ye who prize your curb-service may be shortly without it.

Trays, spoons and glasses have been disappearing with customers to such a degree that the approximately half-dozen places which give curb-service have been compelled to "take steps" or go out of business. Trays, especially, are impossible to replace, they told Police Chief Joe Carroll.

Though customers who drive off with such articles are probably acting on a prankish impulse, the loss is serious to the establishment which depends largely on "drive-in" trade, Chief Carroll said.

Such establishments have instructed employes to take car license numbers of offenders and complaints will be filed against them, the owners told Chief Carroll.

Lifer Asks Writ

A writ of habeas corpus was filed in Supreme court Saturday by 80-year-old James Dorby, serving a life sentence in the state penitentiary on a first degree murder charge. Sentenced by a Colfax county jury, Dorby has served seven years of his sentence on the charge of slaying William Henesh on Jan. 28, 1934. It is alleged in the application for a writ that his imprisonment was a violation of his constitutional rights.

Perseverance is the watch-word for the volunteer harvest crew from the Lincoln board of education offices. Last night marked the seventh evening's work for most of the crew members, reported A. C. Hurlbert, assistant county agent, Saturday.

At the H. H. Berkett farm near College View Friday night, 11 men from the board office shocked 35 acres of wheat in two hours' time.

Two agricultural college students are making practical application of their classroom work during this harvest. Jack Devereaux and Ted Treece are spending their afternoons at work on various farms in the county, and are also working all day Sunday.

Bombing Flattens Munda

. . . Important Jap Base Being Blown To Bits

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 17—(AP)—Munda is being dive-bombed to destruction.

Eighty-two more tons of bombs burst Friday upon the Japanese air base whose defenders, from their foxholes, have seen the central Solomons skies darkened by Dauntless dive bombers and Avenger torpedo bombers from the first day of the American invasion on June 30.

More than 100 of these planes delivered the latest of these low level pick-your-target attacks which in a short while have exploded in excess of 300 tons of bombs on Munda.

Twenty-eight tons of 1,000 and 2,000 pound bombs blasted at Munda's guns and men on July 3; 70 tons on July 9; 67 tons on July 10; 52 tons on July 11; 31 tons on July 13. Other raids have been made without the communique disclosing bomb weights—but always the raiders are dive bombers and torpedo bombers.

Today's communique crisply reported: "Our torpedo and dive bombers, in two strikes in close support of ground forces, dropped 82 tons of high explosives and fragmentation bombs on the enemy positions in the Munda area."

On northeast New Guinea, where Australian and American conquerors of Mubo now are moving against Komiatum, within seven miles of their objective of Salamaua, Japanese air base, Douglas attack planes bombed and strafed in support of ground troops. The positions they raided were at Bobdubi, five miles below Salamaua.

Wm. Jeffers Predicts Lean Days Ahead

...Civilian Tire Program

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—Despite the fact that the synthetic rubber program is on schedule, there will be lean days ahead in the civilian tire rationing program, W. M. Jeffers, rubber administrator, said here yesterday.

Traveling by plane on a swing through the middle west, Mr. Jeffers stopped in Omaha one and one-half hours.

"People should not be misled," said Jeffers, "by advertising which might imply that there is an abundance of tires just around the corner."

"By the end of this year," he said, "synthetic plants will be producing rubber at the rate of 800,000 tons per year." He added that before the war, our civilian needs were around 600,000 tons per year. The bottleneck now is in the production of tires, he said.

Soldier Does Not Need Approval To Receive Packages

His commanding officer's approval is no longer needed for the soldier overseas to receive the package from home which he has requested, according to a postoffice department directive issued today.

A request from the soldier for the request need no longer be approved.

To send the article, the request, together with the envelope carrying an APO postmark in which the request arrived, must be brought to the postoffice. There it is stamped, so that no more than one package can be sent on it, and returned to its owner.

Christmas packages may still be sent without a request, the period for this being from Sept. 15-Oct. 15 for the army, and Sept. 15-Nov. 1 for the navy. Regulations as to size of the package apply to both however. The package must not weigh over 5 pounds, must not exceed 15 inches in length, or a combined length and girth of 36 inches.

Public Nurses Note Increase In Baby Cases

. . . 102 Handled In June

One hundred and two maternity cases were handled during June by members of the public health nurses association, it was brought out at a meeting Friday at the chamber of commerce.

As compared to the number of cases, the visits made were rather light. They totaled 157 for the month.

Such problems as the shortage of help, the increase of maternity cases and the short length of time many soldiers wives are in one town were discussed. The problems of records has greatly increased, the nurses were told, because so many women are moving from town to town trying to follow their husbands. Again they are distressed and worried because they don't know what minute they may be left alone...with a small child on their hands.

It was brought out the Red Cross has been very cooperative in helping with transportation in emergency cases. Whenever possible soldiers' wives should be taken to the air base hospital for care, the nurses were told.

Senior Students Are Entitled To Induction Delay

Any 18 or 19-year-old student ordered for induction during the last half of his academic year is entitled to a postponement of his induction under the provisions of the congressional "high school" bill," Brig. Gen. Guy N. Henninger, state selective service director, said today.

This procedure, the general made clear, does not apply during summer vacation.

He explained an 18 or 19-year-old high school student slated to finish an academic year at the close of the September term would be entitled to a postponement of induction in the event his order number was reached during the September term. Students who are not slated to finish an academic year until the close of the January term would not be eligible for an induction postponement during the September term but would be entitled to postponement in the event their order numbers are not reached until after the start of the second semester.

Oregon Trail Days Celebration Held

GERING, Neb., July 17—(AP)—North Platte valley oldtimers celebrated their annual Oregon Trail days, streamlined to one day and minus the customary carnival, but highlighted with a parade by troops from the Scottsbluff army air base and the interment camp as bombers roared overhead. The Half Century club, made up of North Platte valley residents who have been here 50 years or more, named A. W. Raymond, Scottsbluff, president to succeed H. J. Wisner, Scottsbluff publisher, in its election yesterday afternoon.

Commanders of the two camps organized the parade as a gesture of goodwill. Soldier entertainers from the internment camp presented a program last night.

FILE CLAIMS FOR WHEAT INSURANCE

FALLS CITY, Neb., July 17—(AP)—Richardson county farmers have filed about 200 claims for crop damage under the federal crop insurance program thus far and more are being filed daily, AAA officials reported here. They said spring floods and other factors cut wheat crop prospects to about half normal in the county, and that many farmers will collect heavily. Claims thus far cover about 4,000 acres of the county's 37,000 acre total, they reported.

Precarious Ride

BEARDSTOWN, Ill., July 17—(AP)—When Johl Carls saw his farm neighbor, Roscoe Reichert, driving toward town in a truck, he leaped into his own car and gave chase.

Overtaken, Reichert was astonished to find his son, Jon, two and one half years old, had ridden gleefully for some four miles on the running board of his truck.

Gov. Griswold Greets ASTP Unit Trainees

Gov. Dwight Griswold Friday afternoon addressed 400 trainees of the University of Nebraska's army ASTP unit, using as his theme Nebraska's history, in an effort to aid the newcomers in gaining a better understanding of this state. The occasion was a formal welcoming convocation, held in the Student Union ballroom.

From Eastern States.

The soldiers most of whom are from states east of the Mississippi, are on the campus to receive basic engineering training under the Army Specialized Training Program in which the government sends men to college to secure more technically trained fighters for the armed forces.

Said the governor: "We Nebraskans want to co-operate in every way; we want you to enjoy Nebraska, and to be proud when you have left to say that you spent a part of your army training period in Nebraska."

Lieut. Col. A. T. Lobdell, acting as a master of ceremonies, summed up the structure and the working of the ASTP in the descriptive phrase, "co-operation between the military and the educational."

American government and the government of the axis are at counter-points, said Chancellor C. S. Boucher who followed Governor Griswold to the speaker's rostrum. With the growth of the Hitler party in Germany, the universities were purged and destroyed of any useful function to humanity. In America, the universities are maintained and many aid in the educational training of the armed forces.

The axis forces have attempted to destroy three things not only in their own but in all conquered countries—the freedom of the press, of the schools, and of the church—three fundamental factors upon which the American government is built, said Chancellor Boucher.

Other Speakers

Dean O. J. Ferguson of the college of engineering, and Maj. H. G. Pattison, battalion commander, also spoke. Lt. Francis M. Hesler and Capt. J. D. Crabill who aid the military training of the soldiers, were introduced along with R. G. Clapp, professor of physical education for men, and C. B. Schultz, civilian educational supervisor.

AUGUST MERRITT FAILS TO APPEAR AT HIS HEARING

BEATRICE, July 17—(AP)—District Judge Cloyde B. Ellis ordered a contempt of court charge filed against August Merritt when Merritt failed to appear at a scheduled hearing here Friday.

Two weeks ago Merritt was ordered by the court to produce his four-year-old son Arnold after the child's grandparents had sought a habeas corpus action for the return of the child.

Gage County Attorney Dean Sackett said the charge of illegally possessing the child, which has been dismissed, was filed originally by the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dutton, after the father allegedly took the boy from the grandparents' home.

Gage county officers have not located the child who they said is believed to be with Merritt's second wife and her own 14-year-old daughter.

MARTIN TO BUILD NEW TYPE BOMBER AT OMAHA PLANT

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—The Martin-Nebraska aircraft plant will accelerate its production of B-26 Marauders for the next few months and then taper off after the first of the year, preparatory to manufacture of a new type of four engined bomber beginning next year, plant officials announced. G. T. Willey, vice president and general manager of the plant, said the job of retooling for the new type plane will be completed by that time. He said the plant will build a new type plane —" a war plane that is believed to be far superior to anything in the long range field now in production."

Soldier Invites Hostess Home To Visit Mother

A soldier frequently entertained in one of Lincoln's homes is showing his appreciation in a concrete way, according to Mrs. R. G. Simmons, chairman of the hospitality clearing house, USO. He will take home with him on his furlough his hostess and her mother so that they may visit with his family.

"And this is only one case," Mrs. Simmons said. "All of the soldiers are appreciative of any courtesy shown them, and it need not include a meal. It is the friendliness and 'homey feeling' they desire most," she added.

Invitations for Sunday may still be extended a soldier by calling 2-5419, she said. Arrangements are in charge of Hazel Bain and Woodrow Magee. They are assisted by Mrs. Agnes Stuhr, Joe Fenton, Robert Venner, Russell Mattson and two Scouts.

Becomes Chaplain

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—The Rev. Carl H. Berhenke, pastor of the First English Lutheran church in Benson the last eight years, will leave early next week for William and Mary college, Williamsburg, Va., to enter training as a naval chaplain with the rank of lieutenant (jg), he announced. Camp director for the Nebraska Luther league, the Rev. Berhenke also was chairman of youth work in Nebraska for the United Lutheran synod. His wife and son will live in Fremont.

Produce Alcohol Omaha Plant Soon

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—A "stream of alcohol," about 25,000 gallons a day, should be coming from the new Omaha alcohol plant when it goes into production between Sept. 15 and Oct. 1, R. C. Reigh, plant project manager for the J. F. Pritchard company, contractors, in charge of the work, reported. That is about half the capacity of the plant when it is fully completed, he said. Sonstruction is about 40 per cent finished.

ALL-CITY MUSIC GROUP IN FINAL SUMMER CONCERT

The final concert of the Lincoln all-city orchestra, under the direction of Bernard Nevin, was presented before a large audience Friday evening in the Lincoln high school auditorium.

Favorite numbers with the audience were the "Venetian Carnival Overture," and the novelty selection, "Harmonica Players." The A orchestra, representative of students of all the Lincoln schools, has 45 players. The B orchestra, composed of about 33 students, comprises the elementary pupils, most of them having no previous experience outside of private lessons. Beginning string classes presented a demonstration of their six weeks of work.

Eight years ago, Mr. Nevin organized beginning classes in music, and, each summer, has taught students for a six weeks' period. Gradually, he organized the orchestra which he now directs.

FDR Says CCC Bill 'Ambiguous,' But Signs It

. . . Extends Life

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—A bill extending the life of the Commodity Credit corporation has been signed by President Roosevelt—with the understanding that it permits "standardizing" of commodities where necessary for a price-fixing program.

The president said the language of the measure was so ambiguous that he felt obliged to give his own interpretation. He wanted, he said, to be certain the office of price administration is allowed to set up standards in maximum price regulations.

Mr. Roosevelt explained that the Taft amendment to the CCC measure, which modified a ban on grade labeling carried in the war agency appropriations bill, raised a question in his mind. Congress dealt with OPA fixing of standards in both bills.

Ban Grade Labeling.

The president said that the war agency bill had been interpreted to ban the use of grade-labeling standards in any case, unless they had been previously established by industry acceptance or government action.

"Such a construction would cripple price control because trade standards are frequently lacking or, as in the case of the grades of meats incompletely established," he said in a statement yesterday.

"I am satisfied this bill has no such meaning. It was presented to the senate and house to avoid the consequences that would have followed the adoption of the language in the appropriation bill.

"Senator Taft, who sponsored the language in the appropriation bill and the modification in this bill, stated expressly that the modification preserved power in the administrator to 'standardize' a commodity in any case in which this was 'absolutely essential to an effective system of fixing prices.'"

OFFER TO ITALY; CASABLANCA FORMULA

WEEK'S END produced a new bomb. It was the appeal—or the ultimatum—interpretations differed—issued by President Roosevelt and British Premier Churchill to the Italian people to seek an "honorable peace." Only a few months earlier at the historic Casablanca conference the two men had laid down terms of unconditional surrender upon the axis nation. Had Casablanca's formula been changed?

No Contradiction

EXAMINATION OF the language of the ultimatum furnishes no ground for reading into it modification of terms of peace. It merely opens the door—the door which always has been open—placing upon the Italian people responsibility for making the initial overture. There is no mystery attached to the statement. It introduces no new technique in war. It represents no departure from the efforts made by the late Woodrow Wilson, who directed his words to the German people instead of to the Italians, who in World war No. 1 were members of the allied partnership.

Its True Significance

THE EFFECT of this message to the Italian people was intended to be psychological rather than military. Italy is a dictatorship. Mussolini's authority is not hedged in with any limitations of a legislative, executive, or judicial nature. His word is supreme; he does all of the thinking for the Italian people. The only limitations upon him, and his decisions, are those that might come through loss of control of the fascist party, or control in the military, especially the latter.

Up to the Armies

IN THE absence of evidence to the contrary, the only logical assumption must be that the Italian soldiers, and fascist leadership, hold the key to the answer Italy will give. The civilian population is helpless without arms. Its position is even more helpless than that occupied by the Russian people in World war No. 1; yet it was in the Russian army and navy that the revolution against the existing Russian government got under way. Governments are not overturned so easily, even though it has been apparent that the hearts of the Italian people were not in this war. Undoubtedly Hitler has a few German divisions in Italy, placed there for the express purpose of protecting Mussolini, not from allied attacks, but from a possible uprising among his own people.

Good Tactics

NEVERTHELESS, THE Roosevelt-Churchill appeal represents good tactics. It was designed purposefully to offset recent nazi propaganda, skillfully developed and presented by the propaganda machines of Germany and Italy. They have been telling their peoples it would be suicide to surrender to the enemy—that surrender meant destruction—and that the accumulated hatred of occupied countries would engulf the German and the Italian peoples. In this manner, Goebbels undertook to capitalize upon the mounting successes achieved by the armies of the united nations.

There Had To Be An Answer

THE STUFF Goebbels was putting out is taking root, especially in Germany. In view of the bitterness which German occupation had created, it was only logical for the German and Italian people to conclude that once these slave nations were freed, their slave peoples would undertake to secure a measure of revenge for all of the suffering and agony through which they have passed. That accounts for the temperate tone of the joint appeal. It explains the absence of the phrase "unconditional surrender." It reveals the purpose in introducing the new words "honorable peace." Nothing could be gained at this time through measures of undue severity. Much could be lost. The job of taking Italy out of the war could be made much more costly in sacrifice of men, much more difficult in military operations, and much more expensive in time by solidifying the will of the Italian people to fight futilely on and on.

Saving of Life

ACTUALLY THE greatest dis-service the allies could perform would be to unite the Italian people back of Mussolini in defense of the homeland. There still exists in Italy in element of pride, and an even stronger love of soil. As a prelude of knocking Italy out of the war, there had to be assurance given to the Italian people that an undue spirit of revenge would not actuate the governments of the united nations if Italy was expected to lay down its guns. The requirement of unconditional surrender remains undisturbed. The details of working it out will depend entirely upon the Italian government.

Time Drawing Short

IN TWO WIDELY separated spheres of action, time is running out for major offensive plans in 1943. On New Guinea, and in the central Solomons less than eight weeks remain for successful campaigning. In New Guinea especially, the rains may be expected in the closing days of August, and when they come, the jungle trails are impassible for large forces of men using only light equipment. Likewise, a fall invasion of France, while not physically impossible, is not likely. It would mean that the most the Americans and the British could hope to accomplish together with their allies was the establishment of strong beach heads on the coasts of France. There are no such barriers in Italy. There the allies can take their time with the winter sufficiently open to permit military operation the year around.

Home Front Sizzling

HERE AT HOME there were monentous developments. Vice President Wallace and Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, who occupy chairs at the president's cabinet table, received the spanking that became inevitable when the two of them got into a row. They took it without a cry of pain, apparently convinced they had it coming. But the job is by no means finished. There are a lot of feuding officials in Washington, who persist in airing their own quarrels while military history is being written by the armed services of Uncle Sam.

Giving Orders

IT REVEALS the chief difference between the home front and the fighting front. Mr. Roosevelt can place General Marshall in charge of the army, and he can put Admiral King in supreme command of the navy. They issue orders to those occupying posts below them. Those below them may not like the orders they receive but they obey them—and they obey them implicitly. There is no talking back—no quarreling—no quibbling, no strutting around with chips on their shoulders, daring the other fellow to knock the chip off. An order is an order, not open to question, but to be obeyed. That is the armed services, or the fighting front which with few execptions, the exceptions being in contrast, on the basis of the record, has commanded the high respect of the American people. It is different on the home front.

Tongue Chewing Contests

IN CIVILIAN agencies engaged in the war effort, manned by civilians, the different heads can row to their hearts' content. They can call each other names; finger their noses at each other; carry their qquarrels out into the public; blame the other fellow for not getting the job done; and raise hell literally. That is civilian life. That also is the home front. So while the public under certain leadership cusses and damns and becomes disgusted at the apparent friction in various agencies of the home front, Mr. Roosevelt, in spite of his great authority, finds himself blocked.

No Question of Ability

INVOLVED IN the two fronts is not a question of ability. The circumstances that govern the home front, where frequently messes develop, are entirely different than circumstances which control the fighting front. If Mr. Roosevelt could say to the American people, as the military heads can say to the men in the armies or in other branches of the service: "You do this": it would be entirely different. But we wouldn't like it; we would loathe it. We would rebel against it and cry out much louder than we now are crying. We could say with justification the people had been stripped of their liberties and were living under absolute government.

OFF THE RECORD

"I told you we should've gotten on the other side—Now I'll never get a sun tan!"

DIET AND HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., Author of "The Human Body"

Balance Worker's Diet

Certainly a great deal of the success of our war effort depends upon keeping the industrial worker in the highest degree of efficiency, and certainly the highest degree of efficency depends primarily upon his food and nutrition.

Studies are being made by trained nutritionists of the quality of industrial workers' food all over the country. The meals which are furnished by the factory itself are usually well-balanced from the nutritional standpoint. The foods sold in a company canteen are not necessarily so, especially if the selection is left to the workers' taste and appetite. For instance, signs reading "Candy bars sold throughout the plant are a definite aid to the health and efficiency of our employes," and "Employees' nourishment afforded by candy dispensed through canteen" are not statements with which scientific nutritionists can agree.

Candy, pastry and soft drinks have a very limited nutritional value. It is perhaps true that candy lessens fatigue, but only for a short while and it may take away appetite for more nutritious or wholesome foods.

A Good Lunch Menu.

A dinner pail or lunch box prepared at home or provided by local merchants supplies the great majority of industrial workers with their lunches. Restaurants, lunch wagons, refreshment stands, and automatic feeding machines also play a large part.

A rough formula for evaluating lunches is the following:

A good lunch includes all three of the following items: Milk, fruit or vegetable and a main dish—meat or fish.

Fair is lacking one of these three items.

Poor is lacking two or all three items.

A survey of dietary conditions in industry showed that only 10 to 25 per cent of the employes of 33 large plants consumed milk. There is no reason to doubt that this estimate applies to industry as a whole.

In most plant cafeterias a "daily special" is served for 25 to 30 cents. Most of the employes select this daily special. Estimating the ingredients alone, it would appear that most of these daily specials are of a high nutritive value, but in the preparation—through cooking, pouring off the water and fluids that have accumulated in cooking, and with the food standing for hours—a considerable amount of vitamin content may be lost.

Carefully Selected Meal.

A carefully selected meal consisting of tomato juice, meat, potatoes, carrots, whole-wheat bread, butter, milk and custard pudding can be prepared so that there is little loss of vitamin content, but it is estimated that this would cost 50 cents rather than 30 cents.

These findings, which I emphasize again were made by extremely careful nutrition experts, would indicate that industrial plants could profitably exercise more care in the supervision of the diet which their workers eat. There is no question that if improvement occurs in the diet, it will also bring about improvement in the efficiency of the worker.

QUESTION.

E. H.: What disease causes palpitation of the heart, smothering and choking after meals? Will x-ray pictures and other examinations show when gallstones are present in every case?

ANSWER.

Palpitation of the heart is almost always a nervous affection, is not of any serious import. The diagnosis of gallstones is still only fairly satisfactory. The two questions of whether gallstones are present, or whether there are no gallstonse can be answered only in about 75 per cent of instances by x-ray.

QUESTION.

T. Y.: What is hemato-porphyrinuria of the liver?

ANSWER.

Porphyrin is an organic crystal which sometimes accumulates in the bile in such quantity as to cause a colic, resembling gallstones. It is also excreted in the urine, turning the urine red after exposure to light.

QUESTION.

T. A. H.: Can an inflamed diverticulum be cured without an operation? What foods may be eaten?

ANSWER.

I presume that you mean a diverticulum of the sigmoid or lower portion of the bowel. Many of them get well without operation. Barium sulphate suspension enemas are valuable in clearing them up. Bland, semi-solid, pureed, non-roughage foods are indicated.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Longlegs Becomes Angry

Honest anger has its place;
Uncontrolled it's a disgrace.
—Old Mother Nature.

"Serves him right," said Rattles the Kingfisher to himself as he whacked a small fish on his perch on a limb of the big hickory tree on the bank of the Smiling Pool.

"Who has been served just right?" asked Mrs. Rattles. She had joined him just in time to overhear that remark.

"Longlegs the Heron. I caught this Minnow almost under his bill. Of course, it scared all the other Minnows away. He has all the Big River to fish in. He has no business over here to spoil our fishing," replied Rattles.

"You know, my dear, this is a free country," said Mrs. Rattles softly. "We wish over on the Big River. What are you going to do with that fish?"

"Take it to the children, of course," replied Rattles.

"I hoped you would. The dears seem never to get enough. It is surprising what a lot of fish it takes to feed a large family," said Mrs. Rattles, and sighed.

"Don't I know it? I'll be thankful when the youngsters can fish for themselves," declared Rattles, and took wing for home and the seven hungry little Kingfishers there.

At the upper end of the Smiling Pool was Longlegs looking for Frogs. He is as fond of Frogs as of fish. Mrs. Rattles watched him. Very, very slowly he took a step. Then that long, stout, spear-like bill of his shot down. Plop! A small Frog dived into the water and disappeared in the mud of the bottom where the water was too deep for Longlegs to reach him.

"Missed him," chuckled Mrs. Kingfisher. "Perhaps if he has a little more bad luck he will give up and go back to the Big River where Rattles thinks he belongs."

Rattles was returning. Mrs. Rattles flew over to a tall stake near the edge of the bank of the Smiling Pool. From there she could watch for fish near shore on the other side. For a time the smooth surface remained unbroken. It was like a mirror reflecting the blue of the sky above and the green of the banks. Then Jerry Muskrat swam the length of the Smiling Pool, leaving behind him a silvery wake that widened and widened until it rippled against the shore. A school of Minnows that Longlegs was hopefully watching paid no attention to Jerry although he passed near them. They knew he wasn't to be feared.

"You know, my dear, this is a free country," said Mrs. Rattler softly

But when Mrs. Rattles splashed as she dived for a lone Shiner that was swimming close to the surface near her, those Minnows near Longlegs darted out into deep water. He knew that they were not likely to return soon. Mrs. Rattles had flown back to her perch on the stake and was whacking the fish on it to prepare it for the children at home.

"Quawk!" cried Longlegs angrily. His voice was harsh and unpleasant. "Quawk! You frightened my fish away. Why can't you fish without spoiling the fishing of other folks?"

"If you don't like the fishing here go somewhere else. Go back to the Big River. They were not your fish anyway. They were mine just as much as they were yours," retorted Mrs. Rattles.

"No such thing?" squawked Longlegs. "Those were my fish. They were right in front of me. In another minute I would have had one."

"Then it would have been yours just as this one is mine, but until those fish are caught they don't belong to you any more than they do to Rattles and me. They don't belong to anybody." Mrs. Rattles flew home with the fish.

Longlegs glared after her in helpless anger. Then he spread his great wings and flapped heavily upward. He would try some other place where he could fish alone.

"Thank goodness he has gone," rattled Rattles happily as he watched the big fisherman out of sight.

ACHIEVEMENT.

Along about this time of year
On bush and vine and tree
All lovely growing things appear
Much as they ought to be.

In spite of every backward spring
Or season dry or wet,
At proper time to blossoming
Come rose and mignonette.

And notwithstanding countless foes
Which undermine and prey,
The blue delphinium lovely grows
And smiles its cares away.

If flower and fruit can conquer care
And winds that blast and chill,
Should man, encountering strife, despair,
Lose faith and heart and will?

MURDER IN TIN

By CARL A. PETERSON

AP-F

Chapter 6.

I shook the feeling of loss from me. "Johnson," I said, "I'll make a deal with you. But you've got to talk straight. You want me to talk straight. That goes for both of us."

"What do you mean, straight?"

"That's not Taggard."

He was at me in a minute, his lips opening. "It's your own life to buy off. I want the dope on the smelter." He lifted his hand up with only the forefinger extended. "I want the dope on the Bolivian mines."

"I can only get them if you release me—"

"Okay, we'll release you. But we want some up-and-up insurance. The code you use. The names of everybody in your setup. All the G.I.s on this Taggard tin."

It's all up with me, I thought in despair. But their Fuehrer's doctrine of the big lie could be worked two ways, I reflected. "We expect to get hold of the Taggard tin the near future. That's why I left Boivia." Mirtilo of course, was the first to nibble. I saw his lips twitch as I continued. "You want the location of that mine, don't you? Or, do you want shafts sunk? Do you want the Taggard tin smelted in Texas? Do you want our tin supply to be doubled? Tripled?"

"Damn you!" Johnson said.

I wasn't bothering with him. Mirtilo's twitching lips had told me what I wanted. They didn't have the mine location. Maybe they had Taggard. But they didn't have the mine.

"Senior! Mirtilo said to me. "Help us and we will save you. Ah, senor, it is bad to die. Bad.' He was mouthing empty phrases, but they revealed the fix Johnson and Mirtilo were in. I understood now why Johnson was so eager to know about the smelter. He had a boss to report to and when he reported no news on the Taggard ore, he wanted to be able to report on the tin that was on hand and being worked. That was his weak spot. He couldn't keep on failing month after month. Not with the Gestapo.

Johnson's lips came together in a mean white line. "You come across with the code or we'll burn it out of you." He took a clasp knife out of his pocket and thumbed open the blade. "See that? I ask you something, I want you to answer!"

He jerked the knife towards the door on the left. "How'd you like to come in there for a little tattooing?" He put the knife on the table and walked towards the gagged man. He pulled him around and with his big hand yanked the shirt out. The gagged man wore no undershirt. His stomach was crisscrossed with a series of knifecuts that had been cut into his skin. The crosses hadn't been cut deeep. They had scabbed over. There were at least fifteen of them, dark red on the white skin.

I forced myself to speak. "That doesn't get you the tin. I can get the tin. But I need time."

"How much time?"

"A few more days."

Mirtilo said. "Senor, it would be best so. It would be best. My money's—"

I had taken him in, but not Johnson.

"We'll get the dope sooner or later," he said. "We got an organization. This war, what's it mean to us. We're operating in the States, in Mexico—"

"Except for those shot—"

"Loomis!" Johnson yelled.

A man I had never seen before entered from the door on the right. He had a pie-shaped face and his hair was yellow and his nose was hooked at the point.

Mirtilo walked over to the gagged man. Johnson joined him and together they dragged the gagged man through the door on the left.

A minute later I heard the dull thud of something hitting flesh and bone. Over and over again. A strangled muffled cry broke from the room. I groaned as I thought of the pain that had managed to scream its way through the gag. "They're killing him!" I exclaimed.

Loomis put one finger across his lips.

"They're killing him!"

He pulled a length of blackjack from his pocket and lifted it across his lips as if it were a finger, too. He was grinning, enjoying his joke.

I couldn't stand it any more. The gagged man might have been one of our own men. He had, whoever he was, worked counter to them. I couldn't stand it any more. I got to my feet and made for my guard like a crazy man. I saw his blackjack arm go all the way back and then all the way forward. And for the second time that day, I plunged down into blackness.

Later, how much later I couldn't guess, I smelled coffeee and opened my eyes. I knew in that waking moment that my death was waiting for me like a patient visitor who wouldn't be put off forever.

I wasn't alone. Across the room a Mexican of about thirty-five was bending over a charcoal fire burning in the open clay pit.

The kerosene lamp shone into his small face. He was even smaller than Mirtilo and he had hands like a girl's and a face like a sparrow's. I was thinking that the Gestapo had a varied lot of operatives in Mexico City.

"Where are they?" I asked.

"No hablo ingles," he said regretfully, smiling. "Cafe, senor?" My guard said. "Cafe? Okey—" He was delighted at his mastery over the American. He repeated it. "Okay."

"Okay," I said dejectedly. This was a long night all right, I thought, gazing at the kerosene lamp and thinking of the saying about turning night into day. I reflected that there was some sound advice in that saying.

If I could upset that lamp and somehow put my guard out of the picture, I might have a chance for my life. Or it might add up to my death. But it added up to death as things stood right now. Johnson, Mirtilo and their musclemen were not releasing me short of death. It was extermination for one side or the other.

"Senor Mirtilo?" I said.

He smiled and poured the coffee into two cracked cups. He picked up a pan from the fire and dumped the warmed-up beans on a plate.

I walked over to the table. I thought that now was a good time to knock the lamp over. I could swing around the table and crack him one with my handcuffs.

Continued Monday.

Etna Erupts

LONDON, July 17—(INS)—Volcanic Mount Etna, straddling the east coast rail lines of Sicily north of Catania today began to belch forth columns of dense smoke from its lower crater, Reuter's news agency reported in a dispatch from a correspondent with the allied invasion forces.

The allies now are south of Catania, driving the retreating axis northward toward that port—and Mount Etna.

DOUGLAS COUNTY ORDERED TO PAY FOR AUDITING JOB

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—District Judge Arthur C. Thomsen granted O. M. Campbell, former county special auditor, a writ of mandamus today against County Clerk John Slavik, compelling Slavik to issue a warrant for $5,880 to Campbell in payment for his grand jury-ordered audit of the county treasurer's office in 1941. County Attorney Kelso Morgan said he will appeal to the Supreme court. An appeal will take the case to the Supreme court for a second time, although it has never been tried on its merits.

Campbell's original claim of $5,915 was denied by the county board, and he filed suit in District court, District Judge James Fitzgerald dismissed the suit, and Campbell appealed to the Supreme court. While this appeal was pending, the board allowed a compromised claim of $5,800. Subsequently, the Supreme court ruled that Campbell was entitled to pay, but didn't say how much. Morgan said Campbell's case would have to be tried to determine the amount, and advised Slavik not to pay the claim. This resulted in Campbell's mandamus action.

Catholic Cemeteries In Diocese Incorporated

Articles of incorporation were filed with Secretary of State Frank Marsh Saturday by the Diocesan department of Catholic cemeteries, incorporated to supervise the management and upkeep of cemeteries throughout the Lincoln diocese. Most Honorable Louis B. Kucera, bishop of the diocese, Rev. T. M. Kealy, chancellor of the diocese, Rev. C. J. Riordan, dean of the Lincoln deanery and Dr. J. J. Przudzik, director, were named incorporators.

Father Is Fined For Letting Minor Son Drive Auto

Father and son appeared in court Saturday morning to answer state complaints before Municipal Judge Edward C. Fisher. Rolland Cameron of Greenwood, father of Lyle, received a fine of $5 and costs when he pleaded guilty to allowing his minor son to drive.

Lyle, 14-year-old driver, pleaded guilty to doing the driving and was assigned a 1000-word paper on traffic safety to be handed in to Judge Fisher within 30 days.

Berg Subpoenaed In City Ballot Re-Count Case

Director Theo H. Berg, who also is city clerk, has been subpoenaed to appear Monday in the first contest in which he ever has been called to appear in his 30 years as clerk.

The process from county court orders him to bring the ballots cast at the last general city election when Rees Wilkinson won his council seat by a margin of four votes. There is a truck load of ballot boxes to deliver to county court.

As soon as J. L. McMaster filed his contest, Wilkinson had the vault interior in which the sealed boxes containing ballots had been kept since election day photographed. It is assumed that the first legal move will be a challenge of the inviolability of the ballots. They were sealed by the judges and clerks of election and the official returns were placed in a sealed envelope affixed to the outside of these boxes. The boxes themselves never have been opened since.

Johnson Soldier Missing In Action

JOHNSON, July 17—Staff Sgt. Stanley D. Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bennett of near Johnson, has been reported missing in action in the European theater of war. Sgt. Bennett, who is a Auburn high school graduate, was a waist gunner on a four motored army bomber. He was recently cited by the war department for bringing down a nazi flier. Sgt. Bennett's wife is employed in a war plant on the west coast.

Prophecy No. 976: We won't need the army we have, for planes will do the job when we get enough.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By WALTER KIERNAN.

Well Henry Wallace and Jesse Jones took their reprimands like little men.

"In war time no one should question the over-all wisdom of the commander in chief" said Henry piously and sounding like a vice president again.

He didn't even wait for the "amens" if there were any.

Henry yielded up his little pink-striped board of economic warfare without a single protest . . . and he loved it so.

Day after day he would spring out of bed with a happy cry and run to play with it and hold it to his heart and then Jesse Jones would pass by on his way to deny somebody a billion dollars to play store with and he would take a boot at the little board and Henry would wince.

And then finally Henry ran to the papers about it and now papa is mad and says the next child who runs to the papers had better have his little suitcase packed.

Thought for the day: S—S—Shhh . . . reporters have big ears.

RETAIL STORE HOURS HERE TO BE UNCHANGED

No change in the present store hours will be made according to an announcement by Phil Watkins, chairman of the retail executive committee of the chamber of commerce.

There has been considerable discussion among the merchants during the past two weeks as to what hours would be best if a change were made. A ballot sent out by the retail committee showed such diversified opinions that no agreement was reached.

Brief To Support $708 Award Filed

A brief filed in the Supreme court Friday by Anna Pierce in support of the trial court's $708 award for damages against the Platte Public Power district, contended that the plaintiff's farm property had been rightly damaged by the power district's construction work, and the Douglas county court award of $333 along with the condemnation appraisal of $375 were both equitable.

Nebraskans Really Learning Own State, Says Paul Gilbert

"The state game commission is laying aside many of its pre-war duties and is devoting more time to furnishing healthful entertainment and recreation," Paul T. Gilbert, secretary of the commission, told Kiwanis members Friday.

"More lakes, streams and reservoirs are being stocked with fish. "One of the bright sides of the war is that Nebraskans are really learning to know their own state. We have here many good fishing and hunting spots. And I know of no other form of entertainment that will allow the cob webs in one's mind to disintegrate as quickly as these two sports," he stated.

Mentioning the fact that the pheasant season will soon be starting, Mr. Gilbert said he had no information as yet on the amount of shells that would be released. "But I think there will be some," he said. As for gasoline . . . "well, that is your problem," he declared.

"One of the main jobs of the commission and of the wardens is to educate the people . . . they must learn to conserve what we have by abiding by the laws," Mr. Gilbert said.

Combines Scarce, Says Purbaugh

With the small grain harvest in Lancaster county about half over, County Agent J. F. Purbaugh reports a scarcity of combines. Weeds are growing in many of the wheat fields, he said Friday, and a special type of combine is required for these fields.

"In a week there will be lots of combines; the rains delay the harvest a little, and this is the reason there aren't more available now," he explained. "However, the wheat is ripe now. Most of the cutting and binding is already done."

The corn crop, according to Purbaugh, should be 100 per cent this year.

SELBY URGES WAR AGAINST FLIES

Prevention of the multiplication of the common house fly is a great deal more valuable than any protection against them, said Dr. C. A. Selby, state health director.

The fly is one of the common carriers of disease germs, Dr. Selby pointed out.

"While effective screening and protection of food against the fly is essential in cities, it is doubly so on farms and in towns lacking central sewage disposal facilities," Dr. Selby concluded.

"Oh, let's go out and - - - - - a lot of - - - - -" said the eccentric old man, "I just love them, they're so good to eat." So he and his companion went in quest of the fruit they loved so much. You know, it isn't often that a man in his position can - - - - - what it takes to make a long trip. This is the third day that they have gone out after the fruit. They have a kind of contest, the one who has the fewer when they return just sits and - - - - - them while the other eats them. This may all seem kind of crazy to you but the idea is to fill the blanks with five-letter words, all different but containing the same five letters.

Wheat Is Firm To 1-4c Higher

CHICAGO, July 17—(AP)—

Grains were firm today as hedging pressure against wheat slackened and moderate short-covering brought a gain of about a cent at times in rye. Support was attributed mainly to technical considerations in view of the extended decline this week. As usual on Saturday, trading was light.

At the close wheat was unchanged to ¼c higher, July $1.44½, September $1.44⅜ -½, oats were @¼c lower, July 70¼ and rye was unchanged to ½c higher, July $1.07.

Rome Declares Italy Unable To Surrender

...Capitulation Not Road To Peace, Radio Says

LONDON, July 17—(AP)—In the first direct reply to the Roosevelt-Churchill surrender demand, the Rome radio intimated today that Italy had strung along with Adolf Hitler too long to turn back now.

"Even if Italy surrendered," it said, "it would not mean she would have found peace once again. If, as the British and Americans say, their goal is Berlin, then their way to it is Italy.

"The Italian people would still be in the war; they would be asked by the invaders to turn their weapons against Germany.

"Italians know full well that for them this war is one of life or death."

The broadcast came soon after the Italian high command communique had announced that allied planes flew over Rome last night and dropped leaflets.

The leaflets, it later was reported, contained the Roosevelt-Churchill surrender demand.

Viereck Convicted Of Concealing Nazi Propaganda Acts

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—George Sylvester Viereck, writer and publicist, was convicted late last night—for the second time—on charges of concealing from the state department his propaganda activities on behalf of Germany before the United States entered the war.

A Federal court jury returned a guilty verdict on all six counts of an indictment charging violation of the foreign agents registration act. The jurors deliberated slightly less than nine hours.

Justice Bolitha J. Laws indicated he would impose sentence next Friday. The conviction carries a possible maximum sentence of 12 years in prison and $6,000 fine.

Viereck was convicted in March, 1942, and served one year of an eight month to two year term before the Supreme court remanded the case for a new trial.

Profit Taking Acts As Brake

Specialized buying continued to provide the main support for today's stock market.

There was enough profit taking on the lengthy advance, however, to restrain the recovery shift and keep many leaders in the minus column. The persistently good war news from virtually all fronts remained as a bullish argument although commitments were trimmed here and there for protection against untoward happenings over the week-end.

The ticker tape inclined to loaf from the start and transfers of around 400,000 shares for the two hours were among the smallest for the year to deta. Numerous pivotals were unchanged and fractional deviations eithre way in most departments left near-closing trends a bit foggy.

Advancing tendencies were shown for American Telephone, Public Service of N. J., Santa Fe, Chesapeake & Ohio, New Haven Preferred, U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, Yellow Truck, J. I. Case, Phelps Dodge, American Smelting, Loew's, U. S. Gypsum, General Electric and Standard Oil (NJ).

Occasional laggards included Chrysler, Great Northern, Southern Pacific, Anaconda, Goodrich, Westinghouse, U. S. Rubber, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry and Northern Pacific.

5,000 Motorists Must Explain To Gas Ration Boards

CHICAGO, July 17—(INS)—More than 5,000 motorists in seven midwest states must soon explain to their local gasoline ration boards why they were so far from home over the July fourth weekend, it was revealed today by Raymond S. McKeough, regional director of the office of price administration.

The director said that 5,587 cases have been developed by OPA investigators who sought to turn up illegal use of gasoline.

More than 1,000 other drivers, from 25 states outside McKeough's region, also were questioned by OPA men and their cases will be reported to their regions for actions.

Drivers must give a satisfactory explanation of their trips or face revocation of gasoline rationing privileges.

Omaha-Council Bluffs Supply Of Milk Drops

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—Otto Pfeiffer, secretary of the Nebraska-Iowa non-profit cooperative milk producers association, said today the supply of milk has dropped off sharply in the Omaha-Council Bluffs area during the past ten days.

Pfeiffer said that the drop in supply is contrary to the experience of past years and no one seems to know as yet just why there is less milk.

He said that he is studying the situation and hopes to have the answer within a week. The drop in supply may be due to the milk cows quick reaction to flies, which have been late in appearing, or it may be that farmers have been forced to neglect their cows because of a shortage of harvest help, Pfeiffer said.

Two Badly Injured

FAIRBURY, Neb., July 17—(AP)—Two Fairbury men, Ervin Schueler and Clifford Thompson, were injured seriously today when their car left the road and struck a culvert three miles east of here. Schueler suffered a fractured leg and multiple cuts. He was taken to University hospital in Omaha. Thompson suffered a brain concussion, cuts and other injuries. The men remained unconscious near the car for several hours before being discovered.

Elkhorn Boy With Soldier Engineers In Sicily Invasion

WITH THE AMERICAN SEVENTH ARMY IN SOUTHERN SICILY, July 13 — (Delayed—(AP) — American soldier-engineers lost no time building a complete landing field where they landed in Sicily. Twenty-four hours after they got here a field was ready.

The group, which included Leonard Fallon of Elkhorn, Neb., "Just grabbed the flattest wheat field we could find and went to work," one of them said.

"Our equipment was landed the day after the invasion or we could have been in operation even sooner. We landed at 11 a. m. one day and by 5 p. m. the same day we were turning that wheat patch into an airport."

The first customer was an American P-40 with engine trouble which made a forced landing. Then a wounded P-38 pilot and two fellow pilots brought their craft down.

The engineers didn't even knock off to hunt standard army grub, feasting briefly on tomatoes and melons in the fields and then pitching in again on the arduous labor of clearing and smoothing the runway.

Pirate Shortstop Suspended After Failing To Report

PITTSBURGH, July 17—(AP) Eugene (Homesick Huck) Geary, the Pirate's disappearing shortstop, was indefinitely suspended without pay today when he failed to report for the first game of a doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Geary said yesterday he wanted to quit the Pirates because he didn't like to play in Pittsburgh," President William E. Benswanger said. "He did play yesterday, however.

"He told me again this morning he was going to quit and I gave him permission to make a deal for himself, subject to the club's aproval. When he didn't show up this afternoon, I ordered him suspended," the Pirate prexy added.

TO FINISH PROJECT AT MIRAGE FLATS

WASHINGTON, July 17—(AP)—A bill just signed by President Roosevelt will permit completion of several water utilization projects in western states when the war production board permits resumption of reclamation construction. Among projects affected is Mirage Flats in western Nebraska, and several in Utah, South Dakota, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana, all of which were near completion when the WPB stopped all reclamation construction last October to conserve men, materials and equipment.

—GALLUP POLL—

Public Differs In Solution Of Sex Problems

By GEORGE GALLUP

[Director, American Inst. of Public Opinion]

PRINCETON, N. J., July 17—Because of the rise of juvenile sex delinquency in wartime, some civic authorities believe attempts should be made through the schools and through the newspapers to provide a sounder and more objective education of the public on sex matters.

They argue that a frank and open approach to such problems would give young people intelligent guidance which parents often fail to provide. Opponents of this point of view argue, on the other hand, that public discussion of such subjects may bring more harm than good to the younger generation.

Highly Controversial.

The matter is a highly controversial one which in the long run will be resolved before the court of public opinion. In the past public opinion has been found relatively progressive on social issues. The people were, for example, ahead of health authorities in favoring the removal of taboos and restrictions on the discussion of venereal disease and in favoring various programs for combatting it.

The idea of instituting courses in sex education in American high schools meets with considerable public favor, as reported by the Institute last month. There is less support, however, for the proposal that daily newspapers should carry columns by medical authorities frankly and scientifically discussing sex matters.

A survey was conducted throughout the 48 states by the Institute on the following issue:

"Some people say that sex problems should be scientifically and frankly discussed by medical authorities in daily newspapers. Do you approve or disapprove of this?"

The vote is:

Approve	40%
Disapprove	44
Undecided	16

The chief reason given by those who disapprove of the idea is that there would be no way to prevent very young children from reading such articles if they appeared in the newspapers.

Age Groups Disapprove.

Notable differences in attitude were found by age groups and by men and women. Women in general disapprove of the idea of newspaper columns discussing sex problems while men approve.

The young age groups—those between 21 to 29—favor the idea, while the older groups oppose it.

There is also a marked difference according to degree of education. Following is the vote of various groups:

	Approve	Disapprove	Undec.
Men	43%	39%	19%
Women	38	49	13
Aged 21-29	49	38	13
30-49	41	43	16
50 and over	35	48	17
College trained	51	41	8
High school only	45	44	11
Grade school only	35	44	21

EIGHTH ADVANCES

miles from Grammichele.

"The advance continues," the allied communique declared.

This Eighth army of fearsome reputation had smashed onto the plain above Lentini, a city some 13 miles below Catania and slightly inland, after beating off a second nazi tank attack launched in a vain effort to stem the allied drive up the eastern coast.

Lentini itself was reported blazing. Wholly unconfirmed reports by the Algiers radio said the British had reached the outer defenses of Catania and that the American Seventh army on the west flank had plunged as deep as 30 miles inland.

Rome's Report

Bitter fighting Friday "particularly in the Agrigento and Catania sectors" was reported by the Rome communique which declared that despite "his heavy attacks and heavy losses the enemy did not succeed in making any fresh progress."

Liberator bombers of the U. S. Ninth air force dealt another crusher blow yesterday upon the airdrome at Bari, in the northern area of Italy's "heel," firing hangars, smashing up runways and destroying 11 axis planes. The Crotone airfield in southern Italy was raided Thursday night with similar havoc. Three Liberators were reported lost.

Crushing Bomb Loads

Tremendous, round-the-clock bombing raids by Flying Fortresses and Wellington bombers shattered the Messina-San Giovanni ferry yesterday, with crushing bomb loads delivered upon docks, sidings and the ferry line itself. Lighter bombers also pounded Reggio Calabria and Vibo Valentia in the toe of Italy. Other planes hit axis rail and highway lines throughout Sicily.

It was disclosed officially that the famous nazi air leader, Field Marshal Baron Von Richthofen, was leading air defenses of Sicily. But in this week of invasion this trouble-shooter of the German air force lost 163 of his planes to 69 allied craft downed.

Rome disclosed that allied planes had flown over the Capital last night, dropping leaflets presumably carrying the allied demand for surrender of Italy and the booting out of the fascist leaders.

At the same time, it was announced that the first joint American-British military government of its kinds had gone along with the invasion troops into Sicily, trained and prepared to administer the territoy. The delegation includes hundreds of officers, and Gen. Sir Harold Alexander was named military governor with supreme authority in the island.

From Switzerland came suggestions that "non-military surprises" could be expected from Italy—possibly political changes to lift Italian morale.

The Italian communique said Naples, Bari, Reggio Calabria and Messina had suffered "very serious damage," and said German fighters had downed 16 allied planes while anti-aircraft fire brought down 18 more.

The Mother Pays

OMAHA, July 17—(AP)—Being a boy's best friend cost his mother in police court today. The son was given a continuance on charges of intoxication.

But the mother was fined $5 and costs for contempt of court for interceding too persistently in his behalf.

Gypsy Puts 'Curse' On 17-Year-Old Girl Who Goes Insane

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 17—(AP)—A 17-year-old girl became insane, witnesses testified before Superior Judge Raymond T. Coughlin, after a Gypsy fortune teller informed her she would lose her mind unless she paid a $5 fee for having her fortune told.

"This is a pathetic case and merits the fullest investigation," said Judge Coughlin yesterday in ordering the girl, Evelyn Santistevan, committed to the Stockton hospital.

Annie Guy, 36, and other Gypsies are under arrest on charges of telling fortunes in violation of a city ordinance. A young friend of the Santistevan girl, Armandina Heredia, told Judge Coughlin that the two went to Annie a week ago to have their fortunes told.

Annie collected a 25-cent fee from Miss Santistevan and demanded she return with $5 or be cursed with insanity, Miss Heredia testified.

The girl attempted to obtain the $5 but failed, and authorities reported that she subsequently lost her mind. They added, however that she had been brooding over the death of her father nine months ago.

Yeoman Gallagher To Handle WAVES' Recruiting Here

They were "Yeomanettes" in the first World war; now they're the WAVES, with the same ranks and pay as regular navy personnel. Yeoman third class Helen Louise Gallagher, from the Des Moines office of naval officer procurement, will be in Lincoln next week to tell Lincoln what the WAVES are doing in this war and the opportunities they offer.

Monday through Saturday, from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m., she will be at the navy recruiting station in the postoffice building, Chief Petty Officer H. C. Federer announced Saturday, to interview applicants for her branch of the service.

Speaking engagements for Yeoman Gallagher are now being arranged. Any group which would like to hear about the WAVES may call the recruiting office, 2-4535, for an engagement.

$47,868,257 IN GASOLINE TAXES PAST FOUR YEARS

Nebraska revenue on gasoline taxes has totaled $47,868,257 since the creation of the motor fuel division by the 1939 legislature, John Ainlay, chief of the division, said today. Only four accounts totaling $257 have not been collected in full.

The gasoline tax was formerly collected by the department of agriculture, Ainlay explained, and in 1939 the legislature set it up as a separate division. Each gasoline dealer in the state is bonded, and in only five instances has the department had to collect the bond.

Collections through the fiscal years have been: 1939-40, reached $11,860,047; for 1940-41, reached $12,271,706; for 1941-42, reached $13,398,945; for 1942-43, reached $10,337,809.

Wahoo Farmer Reports Near 30 Bushel Yield

. . . Of Wheat

WAHOO, July 17—(AP)—A number of combines have made their appearance in Saunders county small grain fields, particularly in the vicinity of Ithaca, and indications are that the yield per acre this year will exceed that of last year.

Ray Scheifelbein, believed to be the first farmer to combine his wheat in this area, reported a yield of 25 to 35 bushels an acre on his 22-acre field.

Excellent Oats Crop.

On the Albert Hageman farm, also near Ithaca, an oats field produced the exceptional yield of 60 bushels with a No. 1 test. He had 15 acres to combine.

Near Colon, William Sudik combined a 20-acre field of wheat which also tested No. 1, with the yield estimated at 25 bushels.

County Agent R. C. Russell said the county average last year was 25.5 bushels for wheat and on the basis of early reports this year's crop will top that figure.

Saunders county has approximately 44,379 acres of wheat and 48,678 acres oats to harvest. George Newsham, county triple A chairman, said the acreage is less than last year but he predicted the quality of the crops would be better.

Efficient Town Crop Crew.

Under the direction of County Agent Russell the county has a well organized town crop crew. From 10 to 15 crews made up of six men each have taken to the fields and shocked oats and wheat for farmers short of help. It is estimated these crews have shocked over 1,000 acres of grain since last week. The crews, composed chiefly of businessmen, plan to remain on the job until the harvest season is over.

Pirate Pitcher Season's Best

—'RIP' SEWELL ON ROAD TO FAME—

NEW YORK, July 17—(INS)—When the baseball tussle is over for this season and you begin casting about for the year's leading pitcher, you may find yourself looking in the general direction of Pittsburgh, instead of toward the St. Louis Cardinals or the New York Yankees.

Truett Sewell

These latter two seem destined to capture this year's world series all right, but a gent by the name of Truett "Rip" Sewell is doing some hurling for the Pittsburgh Pirates that sometimes is spectacular and generally effective in the extreme.

Nothing short of an injury or similar misfortune can keep him from winning at least 20 games and thus enjoy the best season of his career to date.

Shaky, But Goes the Route.

He won his thirteenth victory of the season yesterday, beating the St. Louis Cardinals, 9 to 5. He was shaky at times and allowed 15 hits, but the point is he still was in there at the finish, by which time Howie Krist, the Cardinals' starting hurler, had indulged in a nice cooling shower.

Sewell, a veteran of 35, had his best of five seasons with the Pirates last year when he won 17 and lost 15, a performance he is virtually certain to top in the current campaign. With some luck, the Pirates might even ride into second place behind him in the pennant race.

The Dodgers are wobbling, for one thing. They blew yesterday at Boston by 3 to 2 when Johnny McCarthy smashed out a nine-inning triple with Elmer Nieman on base.

Cards Still Five Games Ahead.

With both the Cardinals and the Dodgers losing in the only National league game played, the Cards thus stayed five games ahead of the Dodgers.

In the American league, the New York Yankees finally won out over the Philadelphia Athletics, 6 to 5, with a run in the last half of the eighth after Bob Estalella had tied it for the A's with a homer in the upper half of the frame.

Top-flight hurling by Southpaw Oscar Judd held the Washington Senators to five blows as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Washington club, 4 to 1, last night.

The St. Louis Browns moved into a fourth-place tie with the Chicago White Sox last night after their 4 to 3 victory over the Cleveland Indians. All of the Brownies' runs were registered in the opening frame.

Race Track Betting Booms In New Jersey

CAMDEN, N. J., July 17—(INS)—Despite war-time travel restrictions and bad racing weather, betting figures for the first seven days of the Garden State Park meeting today showed such a decided increase over the same period last year that starting next week the purses will be raised.

In making the announcement, Track President Eugene Mori said the mutuel play for the first week of racing was $2,917,441 or a per capita play of $67 for the 44,498 fans.

Barney In Hospital For Knee Operation

NEW YORK, July 17—(AP)—Sergeant Barney Ross of the marines is expected to enter the naval hospital at St. Alban's sometime during the week-end to undergo a knee operation. He was wounded in the fighting on Guadalcanal.

The professional football season runs from Sept. 19 to Dec. 5.

Honors For Satchel At Ball Yard

CHICAGO, July 17—(AP)—Satchel Paige, who has been pitching for the country's top ranking negro baseball teams for years, will be honored in the "Paige Day" doubleheader at Wrigley Field tomorrow.

Paige will pitch for the Memphis Red Sox of the Negro American league against the New York Cubans of the Negro National league in one game and the Cincinnati Clowns will meet the Birmingham Black Barons in a Negro American league encounter.

The occasion commemorates Paige's twentieth anniversary of big-time pitching.

Sacs Score New Low at Box Office

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17—(AP)—Baseball business is so bad for the Sacramento Senators, an unsubtle last in the Pacific Coast league, that yesterday a new all-time low in attendance was set when only 136 fans showed up for a game with second-place San Francisco.

The total turnout for the last three Sacramento home games: 549 customers.

Sacramento, owned by the St. Louis Cardinals, led the Pacific Coast league last year, but lost to Seattle in the Shaughnessy playoffs.

Medwick to Last-Place Club

—JOE TO GIANTS AT WAIVER PRICE—

BY LAWTON CARVER.

NEW YORK, July 17—(INS)—The biography of Joe Medwick, who has gone from the Brooklyn Dodgers to the New York Giants on waivers, might fit any great baseball player with a few minor changes.

JOE MEDWICK.

In fact, it can be covered by a sentence that probably was fashioned by the players themselves down there in the dugout—a hero today and a has-been tomorrow. They make the headlines for what amounts to a quick flash in a lifetime; then they're forgotten as the ink is splashed heralding the arrival of their successors.

This is not to say that Medwick is utterly washed up. He may do the Giants some good and be around for awhile yet, but all that will be merely a supplementary paragraph to the story about the fence-busting, free-wheeling product of the old St. Louis "Gashouse Gang," who is finally a $7,500 waiver purchase by a team that can't get out of the cellar.

DODGERS NEED POWER.

This comes at a time when the Dodgers themselves need man-power in their weakening pursuit of the St. Louis Cardinals and when nearly any club is reluctant to let a player go, even if he can so much as lift a bat or a pitching arm.

Start at the beginning. Medwick was an all-around athlete at Carteret, N. J., and in his first recorded baseball season hit .419 with a long-since forgotten club called Scottsdale. That was in 1930. He bounced to Houston in the Texas league for two seasons, thence to the Cardinals and has never hit under .300 as a Cardinal and Dodger until now. In 1937, he reached the peak, spread-eagling the rest of the National league hitters and sluggers and being voted the most valuable player.

BIG TYPE BALLYHOO.

That's only six years ago, or when he was 25. His value at that time, if anybody had had the temerity to try to buy him, would have been some such fantastic figure that it needn't even be guessed at.

In those days he was bouncing in and out of the headlines in type as big and black as any player commanded at the moment. He had become a baseball star and something of a celebrity besides. He was welcomed back to Carteret as a leading citizen and fairly swamped with the cold soup and stale buns of the banquet circuit. He was the champ, one of the greatest of the stars and then at his peak.

That's happened to a thousand other ball players. It's part of the broad, general picture of that dugout adage about today's heroes being tomorrow's bum.

MORE HEADLINES.

"Speedy Cardinal outfielder sensation of National league," a headline about him back in his days with the Cardinals says. "Medwick socks four two-baggers as Cards win," says another stretch of big type. There are other stories back there, like the one about his being taken out of a world series game because Detroit fans were hurling everything that wasn't nailed down at him. Later on, Chicago fans bared their fangs at him in a similar gesture.

Then, in keeping with the story of standout players, there are the headlines telling of his holdouts, of his signing and finally the two big ones heralding the beginning of the end.

One of June 11, 1940, relates that the Dodgers had engineered the greatest deal in the history of the National league, obtaining Medwick and Curt Davis for four players—Ernie Koy, Sam Nahem, Bert Haas and Carl Doyle—plus $150,000 in cash. Since then, the figure has been pared down to a generally accepted $130,000.

VICTIM OF BEANBALL.

A few days later, the headlines scream that Medwick has been rushed to the hospital with a concussion and possible skull fracture as a result of being hit on the head by Pitcher Bob Bowman of the Cardinals.

For a time, his future is in doubt, then he is back with the Dodgers, but not hitting. He drops out of the headlines into the little note paragraphs revealing that he has been benched or put back in the lineup, or benched again, and the headlines have been scarce ever since.

Scarcer and scarcer, until finally he's back up there in the type that says he has been sent to the last-place Giants for the insignificant waiver price of $7,500.

Golfers On Mark

Club-Swingers Of Lincoln In Annual Championship Test Next Week at Country Club.

By "CY" SHERMAN.

Club-member golfers of Lincoln, meaning those affiliated either with Lincoln Country or Hillcrest, may well need have a care for their laurels. The annual city championship tournament, the twenty-second links fest of an unbroken series beginning back in 1921, swings into action Sunday and Monday, when qualifiers will take possession of the Country club course.

And when the chips are down in championship play, a Pioneers golfer from the municipal course may come breezing along to bid for the title in Erv Rucklos' possession since the tourney of a year ago.

Dworak Around In 71.

Among the most consistent clubswingers who hold forth at Pioneers is Tom Dworak, state university dental student. Dworak was shooting better than par golf during a Friday practice round. To be exact, he toured the L. C. C. course in 71 neatly played strokes, one under par for the layout.

Bud Williamson, Country club pro, reported Saturday that fully 200 rounds had been played during the two days assigned to practice purposes. At the same time he predicted that not less than 200 entries will be listed on the official roster when qualifying play gets under way Sunday morning.

Match Play Tuesday.

Match play in the lower flights is to get going Tuesday, but the championship and first flighters are to lay off until Wednesday.

Meantime, Bud Williamson is busy rounding up an army of caddies, using as "bait" the announcement that the fee for each round of play is an even dollar, which is by no means hay in any boy's calculations.

Survey of the roll of city champions, past and present, indicates that H. R. "Monk" Wilson, titleist on five occasions, has won more city championships than any other Lincoln golfer. Wilson isn't expected to be a 1943 contender. Other former champions missing now are Harry Kaufman, a Rock Island railway employe; Ralph Reed, now in military service, and Morris Fisher. The roster of former city champs:

Eagle Has His Second No-Hitter

Dick Eagle, mound artist for Lincoln Steel, hurled his second no-hit, no-run game of the Triple-A softball league season Friday evening at Muny. While Eagle was baffling Motor Inn batsmen, his mates were pounding the pellet for six safe knocks and compiling an 8-0 victory. Score by innings:
